EASTERN NEWS.

[illegible] Take a Turn, and Prices Go Steadily Upward.

[illegible] SEYMOUR ALIVE AND WELL.

[illegible] To-day—Mahone Denounced as a Liar and a Coward—Women as Electioneers—Etc.

An Important Health Move.

[illegible] 8.—For some time past the Times, [illegible], has been exposing the inefficient [illegible] of cattle and hogs at the stock yards [illegible] that the inspection of stock of all [illegible] be placed under the control of the [illegible] of Chicago, with full authority. Heretofore the Chicago health department [illegible] officer at the stock yards but [illegible] next to nothing. To-day at a [illegible] stock yard directors and officers of [illegible] it was agreed that the [illegible] of Chicago should have [illegible] of the stock yards for inspection [illegible] authority to condemn cattle or other [illegible] it. The jurisdiction of the [illegible] is also extended over all packing houses situated in the town of [illegible] were immediately stationed [illegible] gates of the stock yards, and all [illegible] examined. Animals condemned [illegible] in a separate pen, and on [illegible] of each day will be [illegible] animals were thus killed this [illegible] turned over to the Union [illegible] at the stock yards. The board [illegible] by stock men. Health Commissioner [illegible] states that it is impossible to estimate [illegible] upon the people of Chicago, [illegible]. The effect of eating [illegible] is typhoid fever, being a disease [illegible] very similar to fever from [illegible], hence the inability of physicians [illegible]. DeWolf has no doubt but [illegible] deaths have resulted from the consumption of that meat.

Consul Seymour Alive and Well.

[illegible] Oct 8.—Nothing has been received of [illegible] regarding the alleged assassination of [illegible] Seymour at Canton by a mob. Nothing [illegible] has been heard at Washington and [illegible] received in this city was through a [illegible] is generally discredited among newspaper [illegible] was received at the department to-day, from Consul General Denny, [illegible] prevails in Canton, and that there [illegible] assassination of United [illegible], who is alive and well. This [illegible] in reply to one sent by the [illegible] of state yesterday morning, asking [illegible] on the subject.

[illegible]—A dispatch received says that the [illegible] to New York, that Consul Seymour [illegible] had been assassinated, was put in [illegible] in a reading-room in an obscure [illegible] England, but that it had then no [illegible]. The story is entirely unconfirmed.

Clearing House Returns.

[illegible] 8.—From a Post table, compiled from [illegible] from the managers of twenty-[illegible] houses in the United States, it is [illegible] the aggregate, though somewhat larger [illegible] last week, is very unfavorable when [illegible] with the corresponding week of last year. [illegible] clearings for the week were $1,051,[illegible], against $1,314,312,362 last week, and $950 [illegible] previous week. As compared with the [illegible] last year clearings show a decrease of 20.1 [illegible] a falling off of 20.8 last week, and [illegible] per cent the previous week. This [illegible] is undoubtedly due, in great measure to [illegible] in legitimate trade, which extends [illegible] of the country. The rush of [illegible] noticed at this time in large trade [illegible], according to the most reliable [illegible] a more moderate volume of trade has [illegible].

The Consul Service Pronounced a Fraud.

[illegible] Oct 8.—[Special.]—While President [illegible] in Fifth Avenue hotel he was visited [illegible] of Cincinnati, who asked the assistance [illegible] of the navy department to find her son [illegible], who was a passenger on the [illegible], which left this city for Honolulu in [illegible]. This was the Polynesian islands the captain [illegible], in which young Hibborn was also [illegible]. Nothing more was [illegible], although the captain made search [illegible] on the case, says. When [illegible] the American consul at Amoy for aid [illegible] that the distinguished gentleman was [illegible] for Japan with his family and had [illegible] upon a lot of American seamen [illegible]. Our consul service is an expensive [illegible], and for the good it does, might as [illegible] abolished."

Money, Stocks and Bonds.

[illegible] Oct 8.—The money market is easy at [illegible] 1½, prime mercantile paper 6@7 [illegible] exchange, bankers bills quiet at $4 81½ [illegible] on demand $4 84½. 3s, 100¾, 4½s [illegible] exchange 39. Canada Southern [illegible] Central Pacific, 65¾, Burlington and [illegible] Delaware, Lackawanna and Western [illegible] Rio Grande 25¾, Hannibal and [illegible] Kansas and Texas 24¾, Lake [illegible] Louisville and Nashville, 49, Michigan [illegible] New Jersey Central 80¾, Northern [illegible] Northwestern, 20¾. Ohio and Mississippi [illegible] Reading, 50¾, Rock Island 19, St Paul [illegible] 25¾, Union Pacific 8[illegible], United [illegible] Wabash Pacific, 21¾, Erie, 30¾ [illegible] 114¾, Pacific Mail 38¾, Panama, [illegible] 127, Western Union 73¾.

The W. C. T. U. will Electioneer.

[illegible] Oct 8.—The Women's Christian Temperance Union has rented store rooms, and in some [illegible], in close proximity to the [illegible] in every ward in this city, for headquarters [illegible] the election [illegible]. These places [illegible] banners and mottoes [illegible] tickets of both parties, with [illegible] or prohibition amendment [illegible] constitution. The ladies themselves [illegible] and electioneer for the amendment [illegible] shrewdest work of [illegible] has been done by and for [illegible] Temperance Union, in the [illegible] amendment.

Denounced as a Coward and a Liar.

[illegible] Oct 8.—[Special.]—Great interest is [illegible] denunciation of Senator Mahone [illegible] Goode, who referred to the senator [illegible] to-day as a liar, and, as a [illegible] of contempt. Richard F. [illegible] of the recent Sherman-Elam duel, [illegible] called Mahone a coward. This [illegible] caused by a reference to Goode [illegible] political speech delivered last [illegible] which, he said Goode had held his [illegible] by fraudulent votes and was therefore [illegible] Mahone, so far to-day, has [illegible] Goode or Elam.

National Bankrupt Law Wanted.

[illegible]—The bank presidents of this city [illegible] resolution that "the speedy enactment of a national bankrupt law equitable [illegible] the debtor and creditor in [illegible] of the country, is indispensably necessary [illegible] maintenance of confidence between [illegible] constituents, and we approve and [illegible] bill, so called, with a possibility [illegible] amendments, as the most expedient [illegible] the wants of the people of the [illegible]."

The Ohio Election To-day.

[illegible] Oct 8.—The election in Ohio to-[illegible] officers and members of the [illegible] will also be three amendments [illegible] submitted. One to change the [illegible] to regulate the liquor traffic. The last two have been the leading [illegible] of the campaign, and in reports [illegible] will be received, showing what [illegible] vote for governor each has [illegible].

Enter the Postal Union.

[illegible] Oct 8.—[Special.]—Arrangements are [illegible] postal authorities at Washington [illegible] into the international postal [illegible] accomplished, will put the entire [illegible] into the union, and give entire [illegible] place excepting Batavia. [illegible] subsidies with the steamship [illegible].

[illegible] from the Northwest.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Villard Shares Go Steadily Upward, and a Better Tone Prevails.

NEW YORK, Oct 8.—The stock market was less active during the forenoon than at the same time Saturday, and although feverish and unsettled was on the whole, firm, and the net result of fluctuations up to 12:30, was an advance of ⅛ to 1¾ per cent on a majority of the active stocks, and prices at 12:30 were, as a rule, the highest of the forenoon. The strongest of the stocks were coal shares, Northern Pacific preferred, St. Paul and Omaha preferred. At 2 [illegible] market was generally dull and lower. In the last hour the market became more active and decidedly strong, and the highest prices of the day were generally made. Advances ranged from ¼ to 1¾ per cent, the latter Northern Pacific preferred to 64¾, with 1¾ on Northwestern to 20¾, ¾ on Oregon and Transcontinental to 5[illegible], ¾ on Northern Pacific to 30¾ and ¼@¾ on other stocks. Compared with Saturday's closing prices show an advance of ¼@2¾ per cent, and a much firmer undertone than at the closing last week. The rise in Villard stocks in early dealing was met by free sales of St Paul, Northwestern, Michigan Central, and Union Pacific. The bears in addition to selling freely in the regular way offered considerable amounts to sellers at 1 to 2 per cent below regular prices.

VILLARD SHARES MOVE STEADILY UPWARD.

The fact that Oregon Transcontinental and Northern Pacific moved up steadily during the afternoon imparted more confidence to operators for a rise and the entire list showed an improving tendency toward the close, and was participated in to a greater or less extent. The bear element showed signs of nervousness owing to having heavily oversold the market, and there was a good borrowing demand for Union Pacific, Northern Pacific preferred, Jersey Central, New York Central, Lackawanna, Louisville and Nashville, and Reading.

The following notice was sent to the stock exchange this morning, by George William Ballou & Co: "We take pleasure in announcing our resumption, and desire to give notice that all unsettled claims against this house will be paid in full on presentation. Very respectfully."

CANNON'S PROPHESY.

The Church Ready to Fight Heaven and Hell, and Congress Too.

CHICAGO, Oct 8.—The Times says: According to Prophet Cannon, God is devising plans to protect the saints and apostles against the "powers of darkness," meaning the powers of congress. This part of Cannon's prophesy puts congress and Jehovah in hostile array against each other on the Mormon question. With the majesty of heaven enlisted on their side it is hard to say why the saints should feel any uneasiness as to the outcome of a contest in which congress and another establishment are parties of the other part, but in the next breath prophetic Cannon declared that all the powers of heaven and hell could not prevail against the saints. This plainly implies that the saints anticipate the possibility that heaven as well as the other establishment, may be on the side of congress, and that the saints may find themselves engaged in a desperate contest against all three. Nevertheless, according to Cannon the saints will go on prospering in spite of anything that heaven and hell and congress can do to stop them.

There is something in the defiant, self dependent spirit, or rather blasphemous utterances of these much married saints which challenges admiration. Much of the historic praise of the rugged character of Cromwell has had for its basis the more worldly than devout spirit displayed in the injunction to his troopers to "trust in God but keep your powder dry." The animating spirit of the Mormon saints is not wholly dissimilar. Jehovah is devising plans to overturn their enemies and they exhort one another to trust in him but to be ready nevertheless to whip the powers of darkness reinforced by the powers of light, without the help of anybody.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Curing of Pork to be Investigated.

WASHINGTON, Oct 8.—The secretary of state in behalf of the president, to-day addressed a letter to the commissioner of agriculture, stating that inasmuch as certain foreign governments have charged that the hog and its productions of the United States are affected with disease and are not proper for export purposes the president has decided to appoint commissioners to thoroughly investigate the curing of pork in this country, and has named as members of such commission Hon George B. Loring, Prof C. F. Chandler, E. W. Blanchard, F. D. Curtis and Prof E. D. Salmon. The president states that he has no authority to guarantee the expenses of the commission, but has no doubt that, in view of the magnitude of the commercial interests involved congress will meet all bills incurred for this purpose. The commissioner of agriculture is chairman of the commission and is directed to summon his associates and proceed to work without delay.

United States Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, Oct 8.—The supreme court of the United States convened to-day but without transacting any business and in consequence adjourned till to-morrow. All the judges were present and there was the usual attendance of members of the bar. Those cases on which rules to show cause are returnable to-day will come before the court to-morrow with the exception of No. 2 original ex parte in the matter of the Canadian Southern Railway Company, which has been continued by the counsel and will probably be settled without further legislation. The controversy in this case relates to the terms on which the company shall be allowed to use the international bridge across the Niagara river. The legal tender case of Julliard against Greenman, which stands No. 9 on the docket and which will probably be reached to-morrow or Wednesday will not be argued at present. It is understood that a motion will be made to assign it to some later day in the term.

General Sherman Returns to Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct 8.—General Sherman and General Tidball, who have been on a tour of inspection and observation of military posts in the far west, returned to Washington this morning and resumed their duties. They have been away from the city 10 days, and in that time have traveled 10,678 miles. General Sherman will attend the reunion of the society of the army of Tennessee, at Cleveland the 17th and 18th insts., after which he will return to the city and close up the affairs of his office, so that General Sheridan may be fully installed before the meeting of congress.

Senator Kellogg's Trial.

WASHINGTON, Oct 8.—[Special.]—An effort is to be made to have a day set for hearing of the indictment against Senator Kellogg, for alleged complicity in the star route frauds. He will be tried singly. All the preliminaries have been arranged, and the government counsel are anxious to have an early trial. Two witnesses have been subpoenaed, and it is expected it will be concluded in a week. Senator Kellogg has received information that an effort will be made to expel him from congress if the charges are substantiated.

Issue of Silver Dollars.

WASHINGTON, Oct 8.—The issue of standard silver dollars from the mints for the week ended October 6 was $615,393, corresponding period last year $[illegible].

Washington Notes.

WASHINGTON, Oct 8.—The department has been informed that Captain N. F. Nokes of the marine corps died at Corinto, Nicaragua, yesterday from heart disease.

The president has accepted two sections of the Northern Pacific, one of fifty miles in Montana territory and the other of thirty, along the Columbia river to Portland, Oregon.

Surgeon Finney, in charge of the quarantine station at Ship Island, reports that during the week ending September 29 there were eleven cases of yellow fever and three deaths at his station.

Advices from Pensacola report three new cases of fever and one death at the navy yard and one new case and one death on the reservation. The weather has been intensely hot.

Giving Every State a Show.

WASHINGTON, Oct 8.—In view of the necessity of observing the limits of state quotas in making appointments for vacancies in the executive departments the civil service commission has requested the postmaster general in selecting clerks from the list of certified names, not to take from a single list the name of more than one resident of any particular state so as to avoid exceeding the number of appointments to which states are entitled.

CRIMINAL.

A POLICEMAN MURDERED.

CHATTANOOGA, Oct 8.—William Street, a policeman of Huntsville, while trying to arrest two negro thieves was seized by one while the other killed him with an ax. A posse is in pursuit, determined to lynch the murderers.

KILLED HIS BROTHER.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct 8.—Madison special to the Times-Union: At a negro festival on Captain Coffee's plantation two negro brothers named Jones quarreled. One caught the other round the neck, put a pistol to his head and fired, killing him instantly. The murderer escaped.

THE TURF.

AT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Oct 8.—The fall trotting meeting opened to-day. The first event was for the three minute class. Maylurd won. Best time 2:[illegible].

Pacing, 2:35 class—Best time 2:2[illegible]. Five heats were paced. Unfinished.

Mile and a quarter hurdle—Won by Bellboy in 2:[illegible].

BALTIMORE, MD.—Dr Irwin H. Eberhart says: "I would recommend a trial of Brown's Iron Bitters in all cases of anaemic debility or when a tonic or appetizer is indicated."

RAILROAD NOTES.

IMPORTANT ARRANGEMENT COMPLETED.

MONTREAL, Oct 8.—Special: The Canadian Pacific railway has just completed an important arrangement which will give a direct through route between Montreal and Toronto, to be completed by the 1st of January next. It has leased the branch of the Ontario and Quebec railway which will now form the western division of the Canadian Pacific, giving an additional mileage of [illegible] miles.

MONTREAL, Oct 8.—Rev. Dr. [illegible]. The doctors [illegible] giving up all hope of his recovery.

MONTREAL, Oct 8.—Special: Dr. Ewer, New York, [illegible] was paralyzed while [illegible] San Francisco, and was one of [illegible].

MUST HAVE A FOREIGN MARKET.

OTTAWA, Oct 8.—Special: [illegible] sugar refiners are urging the government to grant them a [illegible] on all sugar exported [illegible] that unless a foreign market is found they will be obliged greatly to restrict production.

FAILURE OF PRIVATE BANKERS.

NEW HAMBURG, Ont., Oct 8.—Dunlop & Carrie, private bankers, have failed. It is expected the creditors will realize [illegible] much loss.

FOOL FRIENDS.

Nothing hurts a man, nothing hurts a party so terribly as fool friends.

A fool friend is the sewer of bad news, of slander and all base and unpleasant things.

A fool friend knows every mean thing that has been said against you, and against the party.

He always knows where your party is losing and the other one making new gains.

He always tells you of the good luck your enemy has had.

He implicitly believes every story against you, and kindly suspects your defense.

A fool friend is always full of [illegible] candor.

He is so candid that he always believes the statements of an enemy.

He never suspects anything on your side.

Nothing pleases him like being shocked by horrible news concerning a good man.

He never denies a lie unless it is in your favor.

He is always finding fault with his party and is continually begging pardon for not belonging to the other side.

He is frightfully anxious that his candidates should stand well with the opposition.

He is forever seeing the faults of his party and the virtues of the other.

He generally shows his candor by scratching his ticket.

He always searches every nook and corner of his conscience to find a reason for deserting a friend or a principle.

In moments of victory he is enthusiastic only on your side. In defeat he consoles you by repeating prophecies made after the event.

The fool friend regards your reputation as common property and as common prey for all the vultures, hyenas and jackals.

He takes sad pleasure in your misfortunes.

He forgets his principles to gratify your enemies.

He forgives your maligner and slanderer with all his heart.

He is so friendly that you cannot kick him.

He generally talks for you and bets the other way.—Rob. G. Ingersoll.

A New Theory of Love.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

What is all this hurry for? Does it make men admire her? Or love her? Have fine feathers really anything to do with fascinating the male bird? Sentiment is beyond me anyhow. A journalistic friend assured me that sympathy was the great inciter of love. He said that the Rev. Dr. Buckley told him of having met, in an asylum for the mute and [illegible] pinched women, who were teachers in the institution and wives of deaf and dumb men. They might have had their pick to a reasonable extent, from among men with full faculties and yet they had chosen husbands who never had and never could speak or hear a word. The two matches had proved so agreeable that a young heiress of the neighborhood was betrothed to a third pupil. Dr. Buckley had convinced himself that sympathy in these instances begat love. The Rev. Dr. Newman was in the party and my friend quotes him as dissenting from that theory and saying: "A woman invariably has an ideal man in her mind for a husband. She doesn't often find his counterpart in reality. Now what is it that usually disillusionizes her? It is the man's talk. He looks like a very commonplace mortal. Now a deaf mute cannot let himself down in that way. His methods of conversation are so laborious that he doesn't resort to them unless he has something to say. He remains a hero in the estimation of the woman whom he impresses favorably, his [illegible] and she falls in love with him for good and for all."

So we had better stop dressing carefully and hold our tongues if this theory is good and reversible as to sexes.

A Difference of Opinion.

A short time ago Vanity Fair, a London publication, spoke of the Americans and said they were ill dressed, ill mannered, [illegible] Mr. L[illegible] member of the English parliament, [illegible] a journalist [illegible] Vanity Fair. He compares American favorably with Englishmen and declares they are free from the [illegible] prejudice [illegible] the English [illegible] travel [illegible] ways make them very popular. He goes further and adds: They are generally better mannered and more courteous than Englishmen [illegible] conversation which is quite refreshing. They are [illegible] friends and are not so equivocal in their dealings, particularly in small things, as the average Englishman. They spend their money freely and are always satisfied if they get a good thing, no matter what the cost.

An Additional Remark.

New York World.

At a wedding recently in Canton, Mo., a "person," who is generally ready at repartee, was knocked off his balance and completely nonplussed by an addition to his ceremony by an aged citizen, who immediately after hearing the words "Whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder," exclaimed with great earnestness "Or no woman, either, for they are just as bad as the men."

THE BI-CENTENNIAL.

Enthusiastic Celebrations of Various Cities in the United States.

WASHINGTON, Oct 8.—The celebration in this city of the bi-centennial of the founding of the first German colony in this country was inaugurated last evening with a sacred concert at the National theater and this morning the business houses and dwellings on Pennsylvania avenue, Seventh street and other thoroughfares were gaily decorated with flags and streamers, the stars and stripes and the German tri-color being interwoven in many graceful designs. Preparations for the grand procession which is to be made at 1 o'clock were visible long before noon, and the streets adjacent to Mount Vernon square, where the parade formed, was filled with enthusiastic throngs.

AT PITTSBURG.

PITTSBURG, Oct 8.—The bi-centennial of the landing of the first German colonists upon American shores was celebrated in a fitting manner by German residents to-day. The weather was beautiful and everything conspired to make the celebration a grand success and the greatest event in the local history of the German population of Pittsburg and Allegheny. The procession, which was at least fifteen miles long, with 15,000 persons and 4600 wagons in line, was indescribably picturesque. All the trades were represented, all forming a grand moving show, which kept 200,000 spectators in a good humor for four hours.

When the head of the procession reached [illegible] square, Allegheny City a meeting was organized and addresses made by Professor Paul [illegible], John Kirkpatrick, Jones and others. To-night is given up to a concert, balls and banquets. The best of order prevailed all day and little drunkenness was observed on the streets.

This evening, while the delegations were returning home, Henry Voelker and Herman Wolkner fell from a wagon and were instantly killed. Voelker's neck was broken and Wolkner's skull was crushed. So far as can be learned, these two were the only accidents.

AT NEWARK.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct 8.—The German bi-centennial celebration was brilliantly successful. The weather was fine, and business mostly suspended. Court adjourned and the court house was decorated with the German and American colors. [illegible] the streets and [illegible]. The procession was seven miles long, and it is stated that 25,000 people, representing historic characters, [illegible] with many brass bands and banners [illegible]. After the procession the singing societies and bands gave a grand concert. Samuel J. Randall delivered an oration in English and Colonel Philip Bet[illegible] of New York a German address. Ex-Speaker Randall occupied ten minutes. He spoke on the qualities of the American to the German, eulogized their industry, frugality and interest in labor and their interest in liberal institutions. The celebration concluded by patriotic airs sung by the German singing societies, and a display of fireworks. Nine thousand people were in the park besides those in the procession.

AT TRENTON.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct 8.—The German bi-centennial was observed in this city. Bunting and decorations were displayed from early in the morning. A parade took place this afternoon in which all the industries were represented. All the German societies were present from the surrounding towns. Five thousand men were in line and several hundred vehicles. The procession was reviewed by Mayor [illegible]. A large meeting was held in the opera house at which [illegible] participated. Addresses were delivered by Captain [illegible] Stollard and others. The festivities closed with two large balls at the Turner halls.

AT PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct 8.—The German bi-centennial parade to-day was one of the largest of the kind ever witnessed in the city. Fully 25,000 men and 700 vehicles were in line. So great was the crowd along Chestnut street that the police were compelled to rope off the sidewalk.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct 8.—The German bi-centennial parade to-day was one of the largest ever witnessed in this city. Fully 21,000 people and 600 vehicles were in line. Mayor [illegible] was grand marshal [illegible]. The procession was composed of [illegible]. The first [illegible]; the second [illegible]; the third of singing societies; [illegible] Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias [illegible] and charitable and beneficial societies. [illegible] bakers' organizations [illegible] eighth the representatives of trades [illegible] manufactures. The procession started from [illegible].

AT NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Oct 8.—It is estimated that [illegible] were in the German [illegible] parade to-day. The city was [illegible]. The procession was reviewed by the [illegible] dignitaries.

THE EPISCOPAL CONFERENCE.

Reports of Committees—Resolutions Adopted—Proceedings of the Board of Missions.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct 8.—The general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States reassembled this morning.

A message from the house of bishops stated that the house would concur with great pleasure in a resolution relative to meeting with the house of deputies and had appointed the bishops of Missouri and Alabama to confer with a similar committee from the house of deputies. A motion provided for the appointment of a committee from the house of deputies.

The committee on prayer book to whom was referred the charge of leaving out the words "Protestant Episcopal" reported that such alteration was inexpedient.

Rev. Dr. Purdy of Missouri presented a memorial on the subject of marriage. Referred to the committee on canons.

Rev. Dr. Fulton of Missouri presented a paper. Referred to the committee on revision of the book of common prayer.

Dr. Fulton said they would have three years tentative use of the changes proposed in the prayer book before the change took effect.

Rev. Dr. Adams of Wisconsin [illegible] settle by lot a [illegible] house of deputies.

BOARD OF MISSIONS.

The board of missions was then called to order. [illegible] resolution [illegible] house of bishops and lay deputies concerning a committee of three bishops, three presbyters and three laymen [illegible] to make a preliminary report looking to a thorough consideration of the subject of election of ministers into the church or a parish, for presentation to the next general convention.

The report of the bishop of Hayti showed 400 communicants.

Bishop Dunlap of New Mexico, stated that New Mexico and Arizona are the largest of all jurisdictions in connection with the American church; that that section has been uncultivated the most and was neglected the most. The bishop thought this, however, was not the fault of the church. What are most needed are homes for the clergy and also are new churches.

Missionary Bishop of Montana Brewer stated that in his jurisdiction there are eight clergy and twenty-seven places, nine churches, two rectories and [illegible] communicants. Two private schools were started during the past two months.

Dr. Paddock, missionary bishop of Washington territory stated that it was a country of vast and inexhaustible nature with a population constantly increasing, and where paganism, Spiritualism and Mormonism are seeking to obtain a foothold. The churches have increased from six to seven.

Bishop Wilmer of Alabama spoke on his work among the colored people of the south. His earliest childhood had been spent among the colored people and also a large part of his ministry. The condition of the colored people has given rise to peculiar difficulties. The present time is most propitious for the work of the church among the colored people. Political demagogues have sought the elevation of the colored race only in order that they might be elevated themselves above the colored people. The wild orgies of revivals have a deadly fascination for the colored race. The question is what shall be done with this remnant of the colored people? Will they be set apart by themselves? The bishop would rather that [illegible] any legislation looking to the dwindling of many social lives by lines of [illegible] Jew, bond nor free. The church is [illegible] threshold from pursuing such a [illegible] him off [illegible].

The bishop protested against drawing the color line.

Wanted to See Old Abe's Son.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

When the train stopped at Lagrange there was another crowd and more cheering. The president again came out and said a few appropriate words. There was an old colored man there, however, who was not satisfied with seeing the president but kept up a prolonged yell for "Linkum." Finally the secretary of war stepped out on the platform. The old man was enthusiastic. He threw up his hat and turning to the crowd, roared out: "Dat's him, dar he is, dat's Old Abe's son," and the man fairly danced for joy. There was no use making a speech after that. The president laughed heartily, the crowd roared, and Mr. Lincoln smiled at the old man, who kept yelling his cheers for "Linkum" after the fast-disappearing train.

VILLARD'S STRENGTH.

Review of the Villard Enterprises by a New York Financial Journal.

GREAT PROPERTIES—EXCELLENT PROSPECTS.

Villard's Vast System of Credit and Railroad Companies Critically Described and Their Excellence Demonstrated.

New York Commercial and Financial Chronicle.

In view of the prominence that the stocks of these companies have recently assumed in the stock market there is a great desire to get some intelligent statement of their affairs. The report of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company has not yet been published but we have had the reports of the Northern Pacific and the Oregon Transcontinental—both for the fiscal year ended June 30—and with these as a basis, and [illegible] other information of later date a tolerably correct idea can be given of the position of the various companies that go to make up what is generally designated as the Villard combination. Quite a number of attempts have been made in different journals to enlighten the public on the status of these roads, but the writers have almost invariably failed in their purpose because they have treated the system as one gigantic whole—instead of in separate parts, each having its own liabilities and advantages. In the present article the standing of each company will be considered by itself, and it will be our purpose to give the facts as far as we have them without making estimates or drawing conclusions for the future.

The Oregon Railway and Navigation Company is, without doubt, the strongest and least encumbered of the three financially. It has had a life of only about four years. It is a composition of ocean lines, river lines and railroad lines, controlling almost the entire carrying trade of that section of the country. The Pacific ocean, the Columbia, Willamette and Snake rivers and the railroad lines in Oregon and Washington territory constitute the field of its operations. The material out of which the navigation company was formed did not appear very promising. The original companies were nearly all in financial straits owing to the violence of the competition that was carried on between them—but the present company has enjoyed an uninterrupted period of prosperity. Its earnings have increased quite remarkably and every step in its career has been attended with success.

The company has never experienced any difficulty in securing financial means when needed. In furtherance of the enlargement of the object for which the company was formed it has frequently been necessary to provide additional funds but each time the money was readily forthcoming. And the money was raised not through increased issues of bonds but by the sale of new stock. The capital which originally was $[illegible] was increased to $[illegible] in 1881, and has now [illegible] $[illegible] in 1883. It was [illegible] in this way because the shareholders [illegible] large [illegible] and stockholders had the [illegible] of taking the new stock at par. The [illegible] of bonds outstanding is the same [illegible] as at the organization of the company—$[illegible]—and this constitutes the [illegible] in the position of the [illegible] light [illegible] leaves the [illegible]. Six per cent [illegible] calls for $360,000 [illegible] with [illegible] 200,000 scrip certificates at 8 per cent [illegible] $[illegible] or $1,[illegible] [illegible] net earnings [illegible]. As already remarked the report for the last fiscal year has not yet been published [illegible] aggregate about [illegible] when the total was about $[illegible] net earnings in 1881-82 there remained a surplus of $[illegible] after paying [illegible] included [illegible] dividend, whereas in the late fiscal year [illegible] $1,800,[illegible] [illegible] was less than [illegible].

[illegible] will be larger since there is now $24,000,000 stock [illegible] In addition [illegible] allowance [illegible] for the [illegible] Terminal Company [illegible] Oregon [illegible] has a 40 per cent [illegible] interest at [illegible] Terminal [illegible]. In the [illegible] Northern Pacific we may briefly [illegible] that the funded debt [illegible] there is [illegible] which remains to be provided to cover the cost of construction [illegible] about $[illegible] annually. The net earnings on the completed portion [illegible] were $[illegible]. Besides the company owes [illegible] over $3,000,000 of bonds on the branches built by the Oregon Transcontinental but as the Northern Pacific assumes no present liability on these they may be left out of the account. Allowance should however be made for the contingent obligations assumed on behalf of the St Paul and Northern Pacific. The lease of that road provides for a certain rental (40 per cent) of its gross earnings but that must be enough in any event to take care of the interest on the debt outstanding. The debt which on the road between Brainerd and Sauk Rapids amounted to $673,000 was increased during the year by the sale of $3,000,000 (of a total authorized issue of $5,000,000) less the $[illegible] prior lien, for mortgage bonds for the purpose of extending the line to Minneapolis and St Paul. The call for interest on this account (6 per cent on the new issue and 7 on the prior bonds) is therefore $187,110 per annum. The gross earnings on the sixty one miles of completed road for the latest year reported were $431,50[illegible], which at 40 per cent would have supplied $172,600 of the amount called for. With the extension of the road to the "twin cities" of St Paul and Minneapolis earnings will be increased and it may perhaps be assumed that the Northern Pacific will not have any deficit to meet on the interest. That all the Northern Pacific [illegible] the rental to be sufficient [illegible] bonds of the Terminal [illegible] (of which $[illegible] are authorized and $3,[illegible] outstanding) "create a sinking fund and provide for taxes, insurance, repairs and other expenses."

The future earnings of the Northern Pacific and the percentage of its operating expenses are yet in doubt. [illegible] of the company estimate the earnings at $[illegible] gross and $4,000,000 net for the first twelve months succeeding the opening of the road. The land grant is very large and the sales for the late fiscal year realized $3,[illegible], but in the income account only $[illegible] cash is credited as revenue therefrom, and a large part of the land sales are necessarily on time.

The Oregon Transcontinental is the most complicated of the Villard companies and is the one about which the public is most confused. The company controls the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company (holding June 30, 1883, 1[illegible] shares of its stock) and also the Northern Pacific Company (of whose shares it then owned 16,7[illegible] common and [illegible] preferred) and has a lease of the Oregon and California railroad. It is, besides, engaged in building branches or feeders to the Northern Pacific on which it issues its own collateral trust mortgage bonds. It will be seen that the position of the company is somewhat unique since it depends almost exclusively for its income upon the return it receives upon its holdings of the properties controlled. On the 30th day of last June the company's debt outstanding (collateral trust bonds) was $7,[illegible], which [illegible] calls for $[illegible] annually, but provision has been made for this interest for the next eighteen months to come in a reserve of $[illegible], so that it is not a present burden. Of these branches [illegible] more are expected to be built during 1883-84, the greater portion at $20,000 per mile but [illegible] the latter covering about eighty miles in Washington territory for [illegible] sinking fund the Oregon Navigation Company and the Northern Pacific will be jointly responsible.

The lease of the Oregon and California railroad provides that the Oregon Transcontinental shall assume interest on the funded debt and pay [illegible] per cent on $12,000,000 preferred stock. The [illegible] upon [illegible] the 1st July, 1883, was to be paid out of construction funds and in consideration of the guarantee of the [illegible] dividend the Oregon Transcontinental Company was to receive an extra allowance of $[illegible] mortgage bonds. The road is to be [illegible] 1884 and in the [illegible] the Transcontinental company will have [illegible] interest on an average of [illegible] per cent on $[illegible]. The current [illegible] the Oregon and Transcontinental [illegible] at the rate of $[illegible] net per annum [illegible] securities will readily [illegible] When the road [illegible] and the bonds are all out [illegible] the interest on $10,[illegible] first mortgage bonds at 6 per cent, the interest on $[illegible] mortgage bonds at 7 per cent and a guaranteed dividend of [illegible] per cent on the preferred stock imposing a total charge [illegible]. But the [illegible] [illegible] immediately upon its [illegible] Pacific.

Assuming that none of these items will prove a charge upon the Transcontinental Company, the whole of the company's income would be applicable to the $40,000,000 of stock outstanding. At present the Transcontinental is paying 6 per cent per annum and to maintain this rate it must have a net income of $2,400,000 free from any other claim. Mr Villard counts for 10 per cent dividends upon the Oregon Railway and Navigation stock holdings affording a yield of $1,150,262, and 8 per cent upon the Northern Pacific preferred stock giving $1,240,400, and making the total income from these sources $2,400,662 or just about sufficient to meet the 6 per cent dividend on Oregon and Transcontinental stock. But in addition Mr Villard carries forward a nominal balance or surplus from previous years of $2,880,875, making the total available estimated profits for the year $5,281,537. The company bears some part in the lease of its terminal property at Portland, jointly with the Navigation Company and the Northern Pacific but its proportion (judging from the respective holdings of Terminal stock by the three companies), is only one half that of either of the other two companies and against this we have as an offset on the other side of the account the fact that the Transcontinental Company has [illegible] of Northern Pacific dividend scrip bearing 6 per cent. In calculating the company's income an allowance has been made for net earnings on the Northern Pacific branches built and operated by the Transcontinental and upon sixty Mr Villard does not consider this of sufficient present importance to merit special attention.

POSITION OF THE TRANSCONTINENTAL.

St Paul Pioneer Press.

The master stroke of Mr Villard's financial genius was the Oregon Transcontinental Company, which is simply a credit concern similar to the Credit Mobilier—not like it as thoroughly misunderstood by the country at large as it could well be. The Transcontinental is the controlling proprietor of the stock in the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company and the Northern Pacific and has a lease of the Oregon and California railroad. It has nothing to do with the practical operation of the Navigation Company or the Northern Pacific. It is the proper agent of Mr Villard to attend to the finances of the subordinate companies. Its function is that of a trustee company, responsible for the financial health and strength of the whole system. It is apparent that if the Northern Pacific is to be broken down the Transcontinental is the citadel that must first be stormed. As long as Mr. Villard and the stockholders of the latter company—who are known to be more or less identical with the members of the famous blind pool which enabled Mr Villard to obtain control of the Northern Pacific—can maintain supremacy in that company they can snap their fingers at the stock market. The controlling stock of the Navigation Company and of the Northern Pacific is not in the market to be affected by its fluctuation. It is locked up in the vaults of a corporation that is not a stock speculator.

As the system becomes more thoroughly understood people will be struck with admiration at Mr Villard's foresight and thorough going precaution against just such vicissitudes as those of the past two months in Wall street. He has not only brought two great traffic systems to completion and is successfully building a third, but he has provided the delicate machinery by which all may be operated as parts of a greater system without friction, and with the utmost nicety of relations. The plan alone which has its intrinsic as well as the extrinsic advantages enjoyed over Wall street. The separate systems can be operated with better results than if in one system. The duties of the executive of a railway are of the two [illegible] necessary to maintain its financial credit [illegible] system by separating [illegible] operating [illegible] to place the responsible head of the Navigation Company and the Northern Pacific men who are best fitted for the places and at the same time perfectly unharassed by a concern for the reputation of their capital and bonds in the stock market. The fact that there is such a skillful and finely wrought organization controlling the destiny of the Northern Pacific ought of itself to defend it from the transparent efforts of the last few weeks to traduce its capabilities and endanger its life. The marvelous natural resources of the country tributary to the road, the possession of a land grant larger than that any ever enjoyed by any road, the unshrinking, machine-like faith of a syndicate of stockholders perfectly insulated from the shocks of the stock market and the force of a centrifugal organization which has no equal in the history of railroads, together with the firm and precisely confident guidance of Mr Villard, are enough to answer, once and forever the question whether the Northern Pacific and its combining systems are secure in the present management.

BENJAMIN PAYS FOR IT.

The Sequel to the Persian Magnificence of Our Minister's Reception.

New York Sun.

No sooner had the American sahib risen from his couch after sleeping off the fatigues of his reception than he was informed that the master of the Shah's stables waited in the court. Mr Benjamin ordered his attendant to admit him. When the dusky servant of royalty made his appearance he salaamed, and, kneeling down and bending low, said:

"Peace be with you."

Mr Benjamin had read Mr [illegible], and he replied:

"And with you peace."

Then the menial returned:

"You are my father and my mother and all my relations; you are the sun, moon and [illegible]."

Mr Benjamin saw [illegible] out to inform himself of the man's desires and he therefore asked his attendant what the fellow wished.

He was told that the man was one that he wanted a donation in return for the horse that had been presented to the new American minister from the shah's stables. Mr Benjamin thought it strange that an officer of the royal household should ask alms, but he gladly took out and ordered that 10,000 dinars be given to the beggar. His attendant looked astonished and plainly showed that the sum was insignificant. While the uncomfortable minister thought that he heard the turbaned stableman mutter something about "pig-dog," he called out to his attendant that he would cut off his ears if he didn't kick the man out of his presence, but the attendant with many obeisances explained that it was customary to bestow about the value of a horse. Mr Benjamin groaned but complied for the honor of the American republic.

All day long Mr Benjamin's room was crowded with salaaming darkies and toward evening he found himself the father and mother and all the relations of a small regiment of pagans. He also found that he had made a serious inroad on his annual stipend, and that he had about paid all the expenses of the entertainment at which he had supposed himself the honored guest. It is the custom of the country, however, and all diplomats yield to it. Mr Benjamin writes not complainingly but sadly and remarks that much of this sort of thing will leave him nothing of his income.

Style in Baggage Smashing.

"Where's that trunk been?" said a reporter yesterday pointing to a dismantled hulk that had evidently put in a rent from the sea of summer travel.

"I should think that handle was yanked off somewhere up the Northern Central. There's a man at Elmira, I think it is, whom we always know by the way he leaves the handles—always tears 'em off on the same end of one side. When a trunk is split along the back it's pretty sure to have been along the Connecticut coast. The Stonington transfer splits trunks like a buzz saw, but when you get the trunk stove in at both ends, with the hinges off and the lock collapsed you can be pretty sure it's been into Canada. There's where they do smash baggage. You see they get so durned mad handling the chests of drummers and wash stands and wood boxes that pass for baggage in that country that they view every trunk as a natural enemy and they single out the good ones like sharpshooters lay for officers."

"What's your private mark?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, we don't smash baggage here. Baggage smashing like the shakes in Jersey is always in the next town."—Commercial Travellers' Magazine.

Manners and Honor in Japan.

Interview with Hon J. W. Bookwalter.

"Mr Bookwalter, which of the countries you saw is most delightfully impressed upon your mind?"

"Japan. Japan is the sweetest country on the globe I suppose to travel in. If a man must see but one country in Asia let him by all means go to Japan. It is the land of courtesy, of scenery, of art and honor, too. Japan has but recently emerged from the feudal condition and is the freshest child of modern times. Some of their customs had a remarkable influence to compel good manners, for instance, the kari kari. That is now abolished I believe, but it was a strange institution. If you insulted a man he could go off and commit suicide by that method and that compelled you who insulted him to die in the same manner. You could not leave a stigma on a man and have it wiped off by his doing some violent thing to you. He went off calmly and sacrificed his honor by drawing his knife across his bowels while a friend chopped off his head. The law was that you who hurt that man's feelings and led him to that sacrifice had to die in the same way. Hence men were particular how they behaved to each other, and even now their manners are the perfection of both self-respect and magnanimity."

The Newport Dance.

Boston Herald.

In general terms, be said that the dancing at Newport has become too much of a scramble. People valse as though they had a [illegible] on hand, and tear through the polka as if they had gone mad. The valse and polka are the only dances here, and the glorious old quadrille was revived for the first time last night. A Virginia reel would have been preferable. The lancers, such a favorite at Saratoga, is apparently abolished here. Everybody seems to attend the Casino dances, and yet, compared to the Saratoga hotel ones they are all that there is the most exclusive, of course nobody dances with anyone save persons with whom they are acquainted and introductions are becoming more and more infrequent. Young men "in society" have learned to ignore or even refuse the requests of "pushing" youths who say: "My dear fellow, I know so few people here, won't you introduce me to some nice girl?"

Schwatka's Experience with Mutinous Indians—Lieutenant Ray's Recall from Point Barrow.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 8.—Lieutenant Schwatka of Arctic fame, who with his party was picked up by Lieutenant Ray at St Michaels, speaking of his trip up the Yukon river in Alaska, said they started from Fort Vancouver May 21, being detailed by General Miles commanding the department of the Columbia, to make an exploration of the valley of the Yukon. They traveled 800 miles overland, striking the headwaters of the river where they constructed a raft of logs to navigate the stream to the mouth. They procured a crew of six Indians and proceeded down the gradually increasing stream to within twenty five miles of Fort Culicat, where rapids were encountered. Down these the Indians refused to go and attempted to force the raft ashore. Schwatka, in order to suppress mutiny, opened fire on the Indians, killing three, when the others submitted and the rapids were run. The voyage on the raft was 1829 miles. From the Yukon they proceeded to St. Michaels, where they boarded the Leo for this port. Schwatka claims that he has been further up the Yukon than any other white man. This is denied by Signal Service Officer Leavitt, who has been stationed at St. Michaels, and who also came down on the Leo. He says he ascended the Yukon to Fort Selkirk, 2000 miles from the mouth. He describes the river as being one of the largest in the world, discharging 50 per cent more water than the Mississippi, and at places seven miles in breadth.

LIEUTENANT RAY'S RECALL FROM POINT BARROW.

Lieutenant Ray, who returned here yesterday on the schooner Leo, gave an Associated Press representative the following details of his sojourn in the north. He left this port in July, 1881, under instructions from the signal service bureau to establish a permanent signal station at Point Barrow and to remain there till 1884, unless otherwise ordered. The order for him and the whole party to return created great surprise as the work was being successfully carried out, having accomplished all the portion of the interesting international work, corresponding with that of similar stations established by Russia, Sweden, Denmark and Austria. The details of his work will be made the subject of an official report. Apart said Ray from scientific importance the station is a necessity as a refuge for crews of whaling vessels. Every year in the Arctic are an average of forty vessels with a cargo of four millions, and 1100 men are engaged. Out of eighty-seven vessels fifty have been lost within 100 miles of Point Barrow.

THE STATION SHOULD BE MAINTAINED.

In one year alone 1877 twelve were lost with all on board. The crews would not abandon their vessels knowing there was nothing on shore for them to live on. Had a station existed probably all would have been saved. Since the station was established two years ago over fifty lives have been saved. Ray says all the party lived comfortably and in good health. The climate was particularly beneficial to those suffering from malaria. Besides regular provisions they had seal, walrus and white whale. The last was the best meat, being the sweetest and most nutritious. The buildings erected were left to the Indians. He expressed regret at the recall.

Information from other sources attributes the recall to the fear of Secretary Lincoln who objects to people living in the arctic and wants a discontinuance of Arctic explorations owing to the loss of life they have entailed. Lieutenant Ray's statement goes to show that a station at Point Barrow would be the means of saving many lives.

San Francisco Notes.

The Central Pacific Railroad company are intending opening offices in Oregon, Washington and British Columbia as an offset to the movements of the Northern Pacific Company in seeking business in California for the east via Portland. Annual Conference of the Mormon Church.

SALT LAKE, Oct 8.—The annual conference of the Mormon church held two sessions on Sunday and adjourned till April. President Taylor in [illegible] Latter-day Saints [illegible] declared that they had tried to live even the rules of the [illegible], treated as criminals, oppressed by the nation's representatives they had submitted patiently and quietly, but they proposed to test the constitutionality of very oppressive law passed against them, and if the nation persisted in prosecuting their innocent people they would appeal to God and leave their cause in his hands. No one would pass by the angel of God standing as sentinel at the gates of the celestial kingdom, who did not abide the celestial law of polygamy. Secret meetings of the priesthood were held to-day to give instructions to those appointed to go on missions to Europe and the United States.

To-morrow the Mormon church constitutional convention meets to take further action in regard to the admission of Utah as a state. This convention is entirely Mormon, a majority of whom are polygamists.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Fatal Shooting Affray.

FORTY-NINE MILE SIDING, Oct 8.—[Special.]—Last night Joseph Disart, conductor of the pile-driver train on the Pa[illegible] extension of the Northern Pacific, shot and killed Jack Hanson, a man in the employ of Mr. Wise, the pile driving contractor. Hanson had insulted a lady who was riding in the caboose and was ordered by Disart to behave himself. He thereupon became very boisterous and insulting, and finally attacked Disart, who drew his revolver and fired one shot. Death was instantaneous. Disart surrendered himself to the authorities.

Silent Cities of the Future.

St James Gazette.

The interesting account that is to hand this morning of the journey of an electric tram car through the streets of Paris perhaps foreshadows a revolution in the conditions under which civilized man lives in great cities. Silently as did the tram car travel over the metals of the Paris streets. No sound was there of straining harness or hoofs pounding monotonously on asphalt or macadam, still less was there the ear piercing shriek, the dyspeptic puff, the start and roar and bellow of the locomotive. And the car, we are told, was more easily manageable, cost less, and more satisfactory every way than if it had been drawn by a team of horses. Is this the beginning of a happy change when the rattling hansom and the clattering 'bus will trouble the nerves of civilization no more and the town dweller be at rest? In this vision of the future one sees the promise of a time when it will be possible to converse in the Mile End road at midday without shouting and the Angel at Islington will be ringed round about by a great and solemn calm.

Chautauqua Lake.

Buffalo Express.

Chautauqua lake is 1400 feet above sea level. It is the highest navigable waters in the state of New York if not in all the states. Lake George is 346 feet only above sea level. Lakes Placid and Saranac, and some others in the Adirondack region are 1500 feet above, but are not navigable for large boats, as Chautauqua lake is. Its length is twenty-two miles, and it is three miles in width, and nearly a score of beautiful steamers sail it by day and night carrying the thousands of visitors eager for instruction or pleasure, or both. The scenery about the lake is quite picturesque. Villages are dotted along its banks and nestle amid the over branching trees, adding life and vigor to this scene of great beauty. Edward Everett Hale compares it to Lake Como in Italy, and the comparison is quite just. It is well stocked with fish, and the anglers pour benediction upon Seth Green for his active work in behalf of piscatorial interest.

An Affecting Incident.

While the veterans of the Fortieth Massachusetts regiment were engaged in the enjoyment of their reunion at the Willows recently, a woman somewhat advanced in years, was noticed going about the grounds gazing intently, first at one group of men and then at another, meanwhile wiping away the tears that seemingly could not be repressed. Her longing looks moved one of the regiment to inquire whom she was seeking, upon which she replied: "Sir, I am looking for no one in particular. But twenty-one years ago to-day my son went out with you, and hearing you were to have your reunion I have come to look into the faces of my dear boy's companions, he died in South Carolina, the youngest drummer boy in your regiment. It's a precious satisfaction to have seen you, God bless you all," with which she withdrew.

DEATH OF CAPTAIN ALEXANDER'S WIFE.

She Passes Away, Unaware of Her Husband's Illness.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 8.—[Special.]—Mrs Debora Alexander, wife of Captain E. Alexander, of the Queen of the Pacific died at her residence in this city yesterday from pleuro-pneumonia. Three days after the sailing of her husband she complained of severe pains in the back and shortly afterwards felt so ill that she was obliged to go to bed. A physician was called in and everything done to relieve the sufferer, who continued to grow worse, until a consultation of three physicians was held. The patient suffered intensely for ten days, during which time she frequently inquired for her husband, and the cause of his detention from home. Friends in whose house the family resided attempted to console her with the statement that he was detained in Portland in connection with insurance matters rising out of the stranding of the steamer, and that he expected to be down in a few days.

To add to the strange nature of the position which found the husband and wife at the point of death from the same ailment at the same time, and yet separated, their only son, a bright little fellow 7 years of age was taken down with pneumonia shortly after his mother and for days has lingered between life and death. His case was considered hopeless from the start but he finally rallied, and on the day before his mother's death he was sufficiently well to be up though still extremely weak. Even the child knows not the loss of his mother. He has been told she is asleep, and will not wake, and his frequent appeals to be brought into her presence were granted. When he was taken into the chamber of death he rushed up to the bed, threw his arms about his mother's neck, and between his sobs asked when she would wake.

Not a word of her sickness has been told the captain, as it is feared that the information might seriously interfere with his recovery.

George Crockett, Captain Alexander's cousin, who was to have accompanied deceased to the side of her husband, has arranged to have the body placed in a vault at Laurel Hill cemetery, to await final interment. The funeral takes place to-morrow.

Messrs Fleming Bros.

Sirs,—I take this opportunity of informing you of the benefits I have derived from Dr. C. McLane's Liver Pills. I have for two years past been afflicted with a severe pain over the eyes, accompanied with a nervousness and sense of dizziness, a malady beyond the power and skill of our physicians to relieve and cure, caused, as far as I myself could judge, by a diseased state of the liver and stomach. Some of the doctors tried bleeding, and various other remedies were tried, but all in vain, for the deep-rooted disease still stuck fast. At last, I procured a box of your valuable Liver Pills from a druggist here, and found, after taking a portion of them, that the disease and painful sensation over the eyes have almost entirely left me. I will close by advising all those afflicted as I have been, to procure the valuable medicine at once and save much time and pain, with little expense. With sincere gratitude and respect, I remain, yours respectfully, GEO. W. RUSSELL, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams, No. 248 Seventh street, testify that they have both been suffering with the liver complaint for about five years, during which time they have spent a large amount of money and tried many remedies, but to no purpose. Finally, hearing of Dr. C. McLane's Liver Pills, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa., they purchased four boxes, which they took according to the directions accompanying each box, and now pronounce themselves perfectly cured of that distressing disease.

NORTHERN PACIFIC POINTS.

We have received the annual report of President Villard to the board of directors of the Northern Pacific Company, and find it to contain many points of interest not as yet published here. The fiscal year of the company with which this report deals, ended on the 30th June last. The earnings of the then uncompleted road for the year were $7,855,459 gross and $2,761,203 net. Now that the road is finished and nearly all in operation the estimate of $15,000,000 as its probable earnings for the ensuing year does not appear at all excessive. Of this sum the net earnings may be safely set down at 40 per cent, which will give $6,000,000, or interest at 6 per cent. on $100,000,000. The common stock is $49,000,000, and the preferred stock $41,719,463, making a total of $90,719,463. The funded debt was $39,521,200, to which must now be added about $15,000,000 of floating debt, so-called, making about $55,000,000 on which interest must be paid before there can be dividends, requiring at 6 per cent. $3,300,000 a year. The net earnings are expected to exceed this sum by $2,500,000.

On the eastern divisions, as we find from the report, the total passenger movement increased from 239,406 in 1881-82 to 32,910 in 1882-83, a gain from 278,211 to 418,498, a gain of 87.51 per cent. The number of passengers carried, eastward was 198,475, and westward, 252,512, the difference representing largely, though not entirely, the immigration into northern Minnesota, north Dakota and Montana. The increase in the passenger earnings of these divisions was 42.6 per cent. The increase of east bound freight tonnage on the eastern division was 51.51 per cent., and of the west bound tonnage, 9.81 per cent., the total increase being 20.61 per cent. The increase of freight earnings on these divisions was $869,393 92. On the western divisions both passenger and freight business show a steady and important growth. On the Pacific divisions, including the Cascade branch, the gross earnings rose from $272,676 in 1881-82 to $420,871 in 1882-83, a gain of $148,194, or 35.2 per cent. At the same time there was a decrease in the operating expenses of $23,645, or 8 per cent.

But the most interesting and important information contained in the report is that relating to sale of land within the limits of the grant, both by the company and by the government. This information is highly valuable, because it bears directly upon the progress and prosperity of the vast country served by the road. The operations of the land department for the year were extensive, as exhibited as follows:

	Acres.	Amount.
Minn. & Dakota div	417,389	$1,700,548
Missouri div	110,033	324,421
Yellowstone div	6,564	24,635
Montana district	33,940	144,388
Pend d'Oreille div	161,361	731,614
Pacific div	21,946	131,195
Totals	751,233	$3,061,861
Town lots, all divisions		330,971
Total amount of sales		3,392,832

Sales of land by the government, during the year, throughout the whole territory traversed by the Northern Pacific were very large. Thus, in Dakota, as compared with the preceding year, the number of homestead entries increased from 14,156, covering 2,207,268 acres, to 22,491, covering 3,267,227 acres. The number of timber culture entries ran up from 9364, covering 1,456,532 acres, to 11,5[illegible], covering 1,765,259 acres, and the cash sales increased from 673,388 acres for $977,242, to 1,518,091 acres for $3,109,387. In Washington territory, also, there was a remarkable increase. The cash sales increased from 71,244 acres for $102,345, to 252,086 acres for $571,446; the original homestead entries from 231,132 acres to 336,778 acres, and the timber culture entries from 87,524 acres to 143,412 acres.

Information is given concerning the Northern Pacific Terminal Company of Oregon. Its capital stock is $3,000,000, held in the following proportions: Northern Pacific 40 per cent.; Oregon Railway and Navigation, 40 per cent.; Oregon and California, 20 per cent. A total issue of $5,000,000 6 per cent. gold bonds by the Terminal Company was authorized to provide the means to purchase terminal grounds and to erect the requisite improvements thereon. Of these bonds $3,000,000 have been sold at par and the proceeds devoted to the acquirement of valuable real estate, both in the city of Portland and in East Portland.

Another auxiliary work is the Northern Transcontinental survey, under direction of Prof. Raphael Pumpelly. This bureau has prosecuted its work with excellent results. It has "outlined the boundaries of the Wilkeson coal field in western Washington, already extensively worked, and has discovered two new fields, lying near the Wilkeson field at the base of the Cascade mountains. One of these, on Evans' creeks, has an area of eight square miles, with veins twenty feet thick. The other, extending along the Mishall creek to the Nisqually valley, has not yet been fully explored, but already exhibits veins twenty-five feet thick. The quality of the coal is better than that of either of the mines now worked in the Wilkeson region, comparing well with the steam coals of Cumberland, Md. In Montana, the survey of the coal field near the Bozeman tunnel has been completed by assistant George H. Eldridge, and the existence of considerable veins of true bituminous coking coal established. Extensive deposits of a high grade of lignite, valuable for locomotive and general use, have been found in the Bull mountains, near Billings. Explorations between the Yellowstone valley and the great falls of the Missouri have resulted in the discovery of many thin veins of coal, valuable for local use, and of outcroppings of a nine-foot vein of bituminous coal of high heating power. Within four miles of this coal a vein of magnetic iron ore was found. This is the only point in the United States where magnetic ores and coal exist in close proximity.

"Satisfactory progress has been made in the departments of the survey devoted to the topography, plants, soils, climate and rivers. The topographical parties are now giving especial attention to the examination of valleys in Montana which offer facilities for irrigation, by the concurrence of areas of fertile land and abundant water. Definite information will be obtained as to the amount of water furnished by the streams, and the acreage of ground which can profitably be brought under cultivation. It is believed that this information will lead to the agricultural settlement of many valleys now occupied, if at all, only for grazing purposes.

"Among other important work of the survey may be mentioned an expedition which, last summer, made a thorough examination of the Yakima valley, the Colville valley, the Big Bend country and adjacent regions in eastern Washington, for the purpose of ascertaining their value for settlement. The reports of the scientific gentlemen forming the party show that large areas of surface now unoccupied can profitably be cultivated, without irrigation; indicate practical and inexpensive modes of irrigating extensive fertile districts where the rainfall is not sufficient for crops and point out methods of neutralizing alkali where that element is present in the soil in too large proportions for successful farming."

The great problem now devolving on the Northern Pacific managers is that of hastening the development of the country, its settlement by an industrial population and the advancement of enterprises in all its parts through which its natural resources may be converted into business and wealth. To secure these results in large measure will take time; but it is not too sanguine a judgment to say that a very few years will solve the problem both for the company and the country.

In England over 5,000 bicycles are used in the mail service, and there are at least 250,000 English wheelmen.

CORPORATIONS AND THE PUBLIC.

In giving his views on the relations of corporations to the people the other day, Dr. Norvin Green, the Western Union president, said: "Corporations are organized to make money, and there are few that I know of that exist pro bono publico." But the fact that he knows of none that exist for that purpose by no means demonstrates that there should be none. On the other hand the most important class of corporations have no legal or equitable justification for their existence, except on the theory that they exist pro bono publico. The extraordinary grants of power and privileges, the right of eminent domain, by virtue of which railroad and telegraph companies exist, are founded on the principle that these corporations are to be managed for the public good. The legislature does not give to iron manufacturers or newspaper publishers the power to condemn property for the site of their factories and offices, nor can city councils give to merchants the rights which horse railway companies obtain of occupying the streets with their private business. The grants of eminent domain are based upon a recognition of the public use of railways and telegraphs. These grants imply an obligation of the corporation receiving them to use them with that intent. That this obligation has been ignored by Dr. Green and other monopolists does not destroy its force. The first obligation of corporations, which exist through the right of eminent domain, is to the public, and they can make no legal profits in violation of that obligation. These are elementary principles. An interesting and timely application of them is made by Judge Cooley of Michigan, in the leading paper of a late number of the North American Review. Judge Cooley, it will be remembered, was one of the commissioners appointed last year with ex-Senator Thurman to investigate the management of railways and make a report on the subject. He holds, in the article referred to, that not railroads only, but all corporations serving public ends, when invested with special privileges, are under obligation to perform corresponding duties. The law in respect to railroads permits persons to assume the character of common carriers only upon certain conditions. One of these is that they shall carry impartially for all persons; another, that they shall carry persons and property at reasonable charges. As to what are "reasonable charges," Judge Cooley defines them to be "such prices in general as are determined by demand and competition, and they do not," he says, "necessarily lose their character as reasonable because, under the pressure of demand and in the absence of competition, they become very profitable." But when a company receives from the state special privileges and grants of power on the understanding that these are conferred in the public interest and to subserve public ends, it is not by any means certain that its profits may not justly be used as a test of the reasonableness of its charges. "In determining this point due regard must be had to the risks to which such an investment is subject, and as the company ought not to be the exclusive judge, it seems to follow of necessity that the state may intervene to limit profits as well as charges. When a maximum of charges is authoritatively established these charges are to be deemed prima facie, at least, reasonable." Judge Cooley proceeds to say that there is the same reason why the state should regulate the business of the telegraph and keep its charges within the limits of reason that applies to railways. "It is as much within the proper police authority of the state to keep a telegraph company from abusing its powers in the matter of charges as it is to prevent other abuses."

A second point made by Judge Cooley is that "where charters exist which have been granted without the reservation of the power to amend or repeal, the state must abide by the grant, and if it was improvident, must suffer the consequences." But any charter "which authorizes the company to establish such rates for the conveyance of persons and property as may be determined from time to time by its by-laws, confers the power only subject to the higher authority of the state, which may regulate itself the rates if the circumstances shall seem to demand its interposition." Even in cases where a corporation has been granted the exclusive right to fix its own charges the implied condition is that the right shall not be abused; and in extreme cases of abuse the penalty would be forfeiture of the franchise by judicial proceedings at the instance of the state.

His third point is that "whenever in granting corporate franchises the power to amend or repeal at will has been reserved, the control of the state must be deemed practically absolute." With regard to equality of charges for long and short distances, Judge Cooley points out that a fatal impediment to the control of this vexed question by state law is that "the states and the nation have, in respect to it, a divided power, and while it is for the interest of the nation at large to encourage the competition which favors long hauls, it is for the interest of localities to make competition more active in short hauls." A state would, therefore, favor legislation compelling proportionate charges, or nearly such for all distances; but as this would preclude trunk lines from competing for the grain carrying trade of the northwest and reduce such links as are wholly within a state to the condition of mere local roads, they would be compelled to make high charges for through freight or go into bankruptcy. "It can hardly be doubted, therefore, that whenever state power should be thus exerted prejudicially, congress would interfere under its authority over interstate commerce."

Thus it is clearly shown by one of the leading authorities on railway matters that there are corporations whose business is to serve public ends, although Dr. Green knows of none of that character, and that there is ample power vested in the state to regulate them, to the extent of prescribing a maximum of charges for the carrying of persons and property, or for any other public service to be performed, whether it be telegraphic, or the lighting and watering of cities. The sovereignty of the state, however, does not extend beyond its own borders. The interests of corporations and those of the public they are created to serve, ought to be in harmony. It is impolitic to deny them reasonable compensation for this service, and it is equally impolitic for the corporations to invite unfriendly treatment and criticism by assuming a mastery when their just position is one of agency.

Private dispatches from New York fully confirm the report of the arrangement for funding the advances of the Oregon and Transcontinental to the Northern Pacific. A loan of twenty millions on second mortgage bonds of the Northern Pacific has been fully arranged, subject to consent of three-fourths of the preferred stockholders, for which purpose a meeting has been called for November 20th. This consent, however, is as good as assured. It is believed that this arrangement will restore confidence in Northern Pacific and collateral stocks, and there is no reason why it should not make it entirely independent of Wall street. Though the country has passed through what appeared to be a critical period, it never was really embarrassed, nor was the management exposed to any danger of losing control.

Our exchanges come in from all sides filled with more or less condemnation of Portland's mercenary mayor and his corrupt bargain with a municipal defaulter. Some of the Grover democratic organs, controlled by Watkinds & Co., touch it lightly, and a few of the republican ring papers that are badly tinged with Hippliomania ignore it altogether. But every newspaper, democratic or republican, whose owner is not a ringster and a tool, strongly condemns it.

To-day elections will be held in Ohio and Iowa. It is believed that the republicans will carry Ohio; in Iowa there is a direct issue on prohibition which forbids any sure forecast of the result.

CROWDED ALREADY.

At Salem last week twenty-eight young men applied to the supreme court for the privilege of practicing as attorneys and counselors at law in the various state courts. After careful examination as to character, acquirements, etc., the whole twenty-eight were duly admitted into the membership of the bar. Probably few of these young men have any idea of the trial which is before them before they can become fully established as lawyers. Unless they have friends who will introduce them or money to live on for four or five years, the struggle will be a long and a hard one. The business of the law is of all kinds of business the most difficult to acquire. People do not readily trust their affairs to young men who may or who may not be qualified to conduct them properly, and so often for years young lawyers of learning, ability and integrity plod along with little business or none at all. When a lawyer succeeds, success means but little except in a few rare cases. There are forty rich men of business in every city to one rich lawyer. The ability, energy and time required to make a fairly prosperous lawyer will make a rich merchant and the earlier years of the latter's career are infinitely pleasanter than those of the former. It may be set down as a rule that the rewards of the law are less in proportion to its labor and its uncertainties than the rewards of any other business, unless a young man is put directly in the way of prosperity by professional friends. These remarks are not intended to discourage the young men now in the first joy of diploma ownership, but rather in answer to inquiries which come to us almost every day as to the chances for success in the law in Portland. Law schools and law offices in the east are turning out young men by the hundreds, and they naturally look to the west for chances of location. Some scores of such young men have arrived during the past year. Many of them, after looking over the field, pass on or go at something else, but enough are making the hard effort to "get in" to fill the younger ranks of the profession to overflowing. There is no opening at all for young lawyers in Portland, unless they have the means of living independently of the profession or have friends who will give them business.

Division of Spokane county is one of the questions before the Washington territory legislature now in session at Olympia, and as usual in such cases there is strong feeling for and against the proposition among the parties interested. It is proposed to split the county at what is known as the Colville guide meridian, or as the Spokane Falls Review states it more explicitly, running from the Spokane river along the south line of township 24, thence east three miles, thence south to Whitman county line. This, says the Review, "will leave Spokane county with an area of 1800 square miles, larger than Rhode Island or Delaware, and give it a population of at least 8000, with $2,500,000 assessable property. The new county will have an area of 8000 square miles, a population of 5000 or 6000 and over a million and a half of assessable property." Division is urged on the ground that the county is now too cumbersome; that it is impossible to provide for necessary interior improvements in so large a territory; that persons living on the edges of the county are compelled to travel from one hundred to one hundred and fifty miles at great inconvenience and expense to reach the county seat, and that the growth in population and wealth demands division. Objection to the scheme takes ground that the expense of maintaining two county governments will be too great a tax, and that one answers all practical purposes. As a matter of fact, the matter grows out of the ambition of rival towns, the one to retain and the other to gain the advantages of the county seat. Spokane county is now large enough in area for a state, and either now or at some future time it will have to be divided, perhaps cut up into three or four counties. The question is, has the time for division arrived?

Captain Gilman, owner of the building on the southeast corner of First and Alder streets, has brought suit of ejectment against parties holding a lease of the corner room, street floor, on the ground that it is used as a gambling den. The place is the notorious "Cosmopolitan" saloon, recently brought into special infamy by the Acock-Morey murder, and well known to be one of the vilest hell-holes in Portland. The suit is brought under the provisions of a state law which prohibits the leasing premises for the purpose of maintaining gambling games, and it is thought there will be no difficulty in ousting the disreputable tenants. Captain Gilman is doing a very proper thing, and it is only surprising that he has not done it before. Through the sufferage of property holders, many of them leading citizens of the city, the lowest sort of dives have gained a foothold in the business heart of town. If they cannot be torn up root and branch, they can at least be kept in the background. Men of responsibility ought to be ashamed to lease their buildings for disreputable purposes, and they should be made to feel the weight of public condemnation and contempt when they do it. A man who aids vice by giving it house-room, in a measure shares its infamy, and the fact that he may profit by it is no wise excuses him. Captain Gilman's lead should be followed by a score of men whom we might name.

It is reported from time to time that dealers in various parts of the country charge extortionate prices for school books. We have no knowledge of the facts, but in order that there may be no misrepresentation in the future, we print to-day a New York retail price list of text books used in the public schools of this state. Books may be ordered by mail at any time singly or in any number, and purchasers should buy in this way rather than submit to extortionate demands.

There's nothing like official "influence." At about 9 o'clock last night that "well respected merchant" and venerable city father, Richard Gerdes, called at the police station and asked the officers on duty to "take a good look" at a friend who accompanied him and to remember, in case the friend should be "pulled" later in the evening, whose friend he was. The incident recalls the story of the esthetic guzzler who took off his hat before lying down in the gutter.

It was announced some time ago that the Oregon Short Line, in following the Snake river plains, would leave the important trade center of Boise City fifteen miles from the north to the nearest point of approach. It is now stated that the railroad company will build a branch into Boise, giving to that place all the advantages of rail communication.

It will grieve the public to learn that the gamblers who were arrested Saturday night are furious and grunt over the matter. We hear that the highly reputable citizen, Paul Fahr, claims that he has been "treated with bad faith"—the public may guess what this means, if it has any meaning at all.

It is a favorite argument with all venal and corrupt officials that "they all do it." This was the chief point in Mayor Chapman's defense. "They all do it," only all are not found out. It is as false as the assertion of the libertine that no such virtue as chastity exists.

WASHINGTON LEGISLATURE.

HOUSE.

OLYMPIA, Oct. 6.

The house of representatives met this morning at 10 A. M., Mr. Mason in the chair. After prayer by the chaplain the minutes were read and approved, after which the H. J. resolution, relative to the census of Washington territory, providing that all matter relating to the census of 1883 should be omitted from the auditor's report was taken up, and after considerable discussion the house refused to adopt the resolution by the following vote: Ayes—Messrs. Hungate, Kuhn, Martin, Shaw, Shoudy, Warner—6. Noes—Messrs. Brining, Brooks, Clark, Copley, Goodell, Kincaid, Lloyd, Miles, Ping, Stitzel, Turpin—11. Absent—Messrs. Blackwell, Barlow, Besserer, Foster, Landrum, Young and the speaker. It does seem as if the house made a slight error in refusing to adopt the resolution, for the reason that the auditor has now no other alternative than to submit what he knows is an incorrect census report for 1883, several of the counties having failed to make any report whatever, and what has been filed being evidently incorrect in many particulars. If the present legislature would enact a law making it a penal offence for any assessor to make what he knows to be an incorrect report, then the matter could be remedied, and the territory would be the gainer thereby. It is probable that the matter of taking a correct census of the territory for state-hood purposes may be agitated during the session, the only apparent object in being in existence.

The committee on printing reported that the law provides that government pays for 2,500 copies of the governor's message, and they recommended that in addition to the 500 copies already printed the governor receive 500, the house 800 and the council 400 copies. Report adopted.

Mr. Shaw moved to reconsider the vote by which house bill No. 2, in relation to the county seat of Garfield county, had passed, the object being to allow certain important amendments to be made to the bill. The house refused to reconsider the matter, Messrs. Brining, Lloyd, Miles, Ping, Shaw and Warner (6) voting in the affirmative, and Messrs. Brooks, Clark, Copley, Foster, Goodell, Hungate, Kincaid, Kuhn, Martin, Shoudy, Stitzel and Turpin (12) in the negative. After this the house adjourned to Monday at 10 A. M.

NOTES.

At the last regular meeting of the directors of the Olympia and Chehalis Valley railroad it was decided that hereafter the passenger and logging trains shall run separately, so that hereafter passengers need have no fears regarding their safety on this line, and they can certainly make much better time in reaching this point than by coming round by Tacoma as heretofore. The cars now reach this city at 8 P. M. sharp and afterward the locomotive returns for the logs.

To the disappointment of many, the directors of the industrial association have concluded to postpone their annual fair until the 23d inst. It is to be hoped that it may then prove a success.

When your blood is poisoned or corrupted the remedy is at hand. Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

GARDEN HOMES FOR A FEW.

Who Wants Them?

THE UNDERSIGNED OFFERS FOR SALE, IN tracts of a size to suit purchasers, 40 or more acres of land lying in Tp 1 N, R 1 E. This land lies about 1½ miles due north from Albina, 1 mile east of the Willamette river, is of level and sightly location, on the direct road from East Portland to Vancouver, and close to the line of the projected railway, connecting those two places. It is now nearly all under cultivation, high above all swamps and miasmatic influences, and is certainly a most desirable location for suburban residences or small garden tracts. It will be sold by the acre, measured, in any-sized tracts from 2 to 40 acres. Terms of sale and full description given on application in person or by letter to ED. F. LEWIS, Agent, Lock Drawer 32, Portland.

EPP'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us, ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

LIGHT THE WHARVES

PORTLAND October 8

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Having business with the ships coming to this port I have had frequent occasions to notice the state of the wharves they being neither more or less than man traps no lamps and nothing but a small plank over the ships to walk on—risky in the day time and very dangerous at night Within the last week we have had examples of the great efficiency of these traps One man fell down Thursday last and narrowly escaped drowning and one on Saturday who was found drowned in the morning Of course, these will be placed to their both being in liquor at the time Even so why kill a man because he is drunk? Sailors are liable to take more liquor than is good for them therefore every precaution ought to be taken Shippers of grain and owners of wharves make enough money out of the ships to afford a few planks and lanterns which is all that is required to make the wharves as safe as any in the world instead of being the most dangerous

By inserting this I hope some alterations will be made by the proper parties and prevent any more accidents Yours A B C

BOLD HIGHWAY ROBBERY

About twenty minutes to ten o'clock last night as Charles Collins a store keeper of West Park and D streets was on his way home he was knocked down and robbed in the most audacious manner Collins had reached the corner of East Park and D streets when two men sprang from a place where they had been hiding One of them clutched him around the neck and the other held a revolver at his head until both knocked him down To prevent the unfortunate citizen from making an outcry a handkerchief was fastened over his mouth His arms and feet were tied with ropes and a gunny sack placed over his head His pockets were then rifled and between $80 and $90 and a silver watch were stolen The footpads then fled Mr Collins laid in his unpleasant predicament for nearly an hour when his wife becoming alarmed sent a clerk in the store down town to look after him As the man approached the scene of the robbery he heard a muffled cry coming from a dark object lying on the ground and found it was a man Upon removing the gunny sack the clerk discovered that it was his employer and he lost no time in calling for assistance When Mr Collins recovered from his fright and shock he described the men who had waylaid him One of them had a mask on and the other's face was bare and smooth shaven It is supposed they are members of a regular gang of burglars and highwaymen now operating in this city

BRICK POMEROY'S LIBEL SUIT

PORTLAND Oct 7

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Permit me to correct a statement in the dispatch from Denver in this morning's issue of THE OREGONIAN that Brick Pomeroy is president and general manager of the Atlantic and Pacific Tunnel Company Mr Pomeroy (M M) has not now and never has had any connection with that concern He is however president and financial manager of the Atlantic Pacific Tunnel Company a corporation under the laws of Colorado doing a legitimate mining business in the interest of its stockholders and if the Denver Republican has attacked this concern ... fraudulent concern it will certainly get the worst of the battle This state ... as there are many persons in Oregon and in the territory of Washington who are stockholders in the company of which Mr Pomeroy is president

THE NEW DIRECTORY

We are pleased to note the success which attends the efforts of Messrs Allman & ... to supply this city with its first complete and correct directory Every business man who has heretofore had occasion to refer to this ... must have been compelled to lament the fact that ... work provided him tells him where a resident ... rather than where he is. These gentlemen ... change in this ... they have had a large experience in the business and having employed a large and able corps of assistants with ... out doubt meet with the generous and ... surprising patronage from our business men and merchants that their efforts deserve

PLUNDER IDENTIFIED

A Hillsboro Merchant Finds his Property Among the Goods Captured by Detective Barry

The burglars Samuel Hayward alias Bruce Creighton and James Hayden alias Kerrigan who were arrested on Sunday night by policemen Barry Wing and Collins were not arraigned in the police court yesterday on account of the absence of important witnesses The prisoners, who have been kept confined in separate cells were yesterday confronted with policeman Mott who is of the opinion that Kerrigan is the man who shot at him when detected in robbing Wass store The evident embarrassment of the prisoner when brought before Mott was taken as an indication of his guilt

Mr Wetherred of the firm of Pittinger & Wetherred of Hillsboro whose store was robbed a short time since, came to town yesterday and identified the watches as a portion of the plunder taken from the establishment.

Among the tools found in the burglars valises was a small iron rod about a foot in length with a neatly made hinge or joint in the middle and one end made into a ring Around the other end is wrapped a piece of waxed end such as is used by shoemakers No one can tell what it is intended for but it is supposed it is to be used in turning the tumblers in a safe lock after a hole has been drilled through the door The fellows had a fine set of tools and it is to be hoped that they may not have a chance to use them for some time

Policeman Barry had been on the track of these scoundrels for several days He watched them to the postoffice a few nights since and found that Creighton asked for letters under the name of George Roberts so it is evident that they have plenty of aliases

There is no doubt that Creighton and his pal occupied at the time of their arrest another room in some other part of the city The fact that Kerrigan brought the two satchels to the new room at night is good grounds for thinking that Creighton had not left their former quarters but that the two had concluded it was better for them to separate for the time being If this other room could be discovered undoubtedly much stolen property would be brought to light and more tools used in carrying on of their nefarious business Detective Barry who has worked indefatigably in this matter wishes very much to add this completing link to the chain of evidence which he has connected from the various fragments already mentioned The burglars will none the less surely be convicted without it but with it other crimes could be ferreted out and their abode in the penitentiary rightfully lengthened

To aid in finding out where this room is located the following description of the two men is given any honest person who by chance took in these dishonest lodgers will confer a great favor by informing Detective Barry immediately strict privacy in regard to names is assured

Bruce Creighton is about 30 years old tall and muscular He has dark hair cut short dark eyes a short dark mustache and otherwise clean shaven He is about five feet eleven inches in height and wore a black felt hat with a low crown a brown sack coat and vest black diagonal pants and button gaiter shoes

Kerrigan is 45 years old is shorter and stouter than Creighton, and wears a full red beard which he keeps carefully trimmed

On last Saturday morning occurred the nuptial ceremony at Albany of Mr Fred ... of Walla Walla and Miss Minnie Warren of Brownsville The bride is a highly respected intelligent young lady who is well worthy the affection of her partner and the esteem of all others who know her That all who read this may feel an interest in the case we will mention that the bride's mother when a girl was one of the prisoners captured at the Whitman massacre but afterwards bought from the Indians Mr ... is a well to do merchant of Walla Walla whither he takes his bride followed by the well wishes of a host of friends

SALEM NOTES

(FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.)

James Hill deputy sheriff of Coos county is in the city en route home from conveying to the insane asylum at East Portland Thomas O Mortimer of that county

Colonel John W Ledington formerly of this city but now of Heppner has we learn recently purchased a stock of hardware and is firmly established in business in that enterprising little town

Rev P S Knight superintendent of the Oregon school for deaf mutes is endeavoring to perfect arrangements by which he can take the class of pupils to Portland and afford your citizens an opportunity of witnessing one of their interesting performances

Andrew J Lockhart who was admitted to the bar on Thursday last by the supreme court of this state departs to-day for your city where he contemplates practicing. He is enterprising and popular and will, his friends feel confident succeed in the profession he has chosen

Sheriff Humphrey, of Albany passed through here yesterday having in charge C P Thompson a well known and highly esteemed citizen of Albany who has just been adjudged insane and committed to the asylum His friends throughout the state and they are legion will be pained to learn of his affliction and unite in wishing him a speedy and complete recovery

The following articles of incorporation have just been filed in the office of the secretary of state The Irrigation Canal Company, incorporators George Gekler A Summer, John A Childers principal office at La Grande, capital stock $2000 also the ... Farmers Irrigating Ditch Company incorporators E R Grazell, W G Thompson and ... W Pierce principal office, Vale Baker county capital stock $ 000

Colonel C A Reed of this city has been appointed agent and attorney for this state for the Agricultural Insurance Company of New York who will shortly make the required deposit of $50 000 with the state treasurer preparatory to transacting business in this state. This company differs from the ordinary fire insurance companies in that they insure property in the country only not taking any risks in town or city property

A few of the friends of the Oregon mute school, prominent among whom is Rev P S Knight contemplate making a canvass of the city in a few days to raise if possible the sum of something like $600 to be expended in the erection of a school room for that institution their present quarters being much too small The cause is one meriting the support of our citizens and will no doubt meet with a liberal support The present state appropriation it is claimed is barely sufficient to meet the running expenses of the school leaving the trustees nothing for building improvements

Washington Territory

Information is received that Charles Foote an uncle of C B Foote of Pomeroy W T died at Ionia Michigan on the 1st ult at the good old age of one hundred and two years and seven months Up to within five days of his death his mind was remarkably clear and his memory good After he was 81 years old he with his own labor got in eight acres of hay and when over 90 worked in the harvest field and boasted that he followed a cradle and raked and bound over a hundred sheaves of wheat in a little over an hour

A few nights ago the steamer Augusta was burned at Port Madison She had returned from a special trip to Seattle about 11 o clock and the two men who ran her had gone to their homes in the town About 2 o clock an alarm was sounded But for the boat could be taken out from the wharf the flames had communicated with that structure but they were extinguished before serious damage was done it The steamer was towed across the narrow bay and sunk in shallow water from which she has since been raised The Augusta was a small propeller built here three years ago and plying in the Port Madison trade She belonged to Captain H H Hamlin upon whom a loss of about $1000 has been visited by this disaster The injury done the boat was almost entirely confined to her upper works which will be rebuilt as speedily as possible

FIGHTING AT THE ALTAR.

A Madman Assaults a Priest During the Service in a Church.

Albany Argus

The usually quiet city of Cohoes was thrown into a state of intense excitement yesterday by the strange conduct of a well known young man named John Rafferty who took possession of St Bernard's church assaulted the pastor Rev Father Irwin and attempted to prevent the celebration of the mass It appears that Rafferty, who is 23 years of age of good character, and the son of poor but highly respected parents began the study of law last fall in the office of the city attorney H S Strong He continued there until spring in opposition to the wishes of his parents who wanted him to fit himself for the priesthood Owing to the inability of the family to support him while at his studies, Rafferty then secured work in a knitting mill but continued his studies, often reading until late hours in the morning after returning from his day's work About one week ago it was noticed that he conducted himself strangely at times but very little attention was paid to it He was frequently seen in the vicinity of St Bernard's church, and was found there at a late hour on Saturday evening. Several persons there present noticed that he had on what seemed to be a kind of regalia but as he was quiet and well behaved nothing further was thought of the matter

On Sunday morning when the sexton opened the church, he found Rafferty waiting at the door Soon afterward the young man walked up the aisle to the sanctuary where he stripped and took from his clothing a large white crucifix and a red and blue ribbon each with a medal attached These he hung about his neck and then began walking up and down in front of the sanctuary When the sisters and other worshippers came in he paid no attention to their presence but continued his parade As the Rev Father Irwin entered and proceeded to the altar Rafferty followed and attempted to take from him the sacred volume from which he was about to read He was ordered from the altar but refused to go and grappled with the priest In the struggle the book was torn in two and cast upon the floor By this time the congregation was in a state of the greatest excitement and many started to leave the church, fearing that the madman would do them personal harm Rafferty on seeing this, called upon them not to be frightened but to keep their seats, as it was all right The sexton then put in an appearance and led Rafferty from the altar expostulating with him for his conduct Another boon was handed to Father Irwin by the sexton who tried to coax Rafferty to leave the church The insane man who is a large and powerful being fully six feet three inches in hight, tore himself away and insisted on taking the book from Father Irwin He shouted I am higher than any priest bishop or cardinal I am next to the pope and there is no priest here fit to say mass I won't let them Finding Rafferty growing more violent each moment the sexton then went for a ... Sergeant Smith, of the police force who entered the church and arrested the man An attempt to remove the decoration from his neck was violently resisted by Rafferty who, however said he would go with the officer During the day the prisoner became quiet and calm and acted naturally He appeared to fully realize his condition which is evidently the result of excessive study and overwork

MRS. LANGTRY'S MORTGAGES!

Her Lawyer Tells How Easily She Paid Out Eighty Thousand Dollars

Mr John M Bowers attorney for Mrs Langtry in her recent land and mortgage investment said to a reporter of the New York World "It is a fact that she invested $81 000 in a perfectly secure manner but I cannot give you the entire details because there are certain things between counsel and client that must be kept secret I am at liberty to say how the transaction came about Shortly before Mrs Langtry's departure for Europe I received a note from her (and he drew from a pile of letters a dainty envelope with a neat crest on the flap) requesting me to search the titles of three pieces of property on which she was desirous of advancing loans on mortgage She had already been advised of the nature of the real estate and my part of the work was to look up the records and see that everything was all right On my report she sent me a check for $81 000 I don't now remember whether it was certified but nevertheless it was duly paid on presentation at the bank It was expended in the following way Forty five thousand dollars on a store house in Fifty third street between Fifth and Sixth avenues $20 000 on a stone building on Eighth avenue near Thirtieth street and $16 000 on another on the same avenue a little below Seventy fourth street The papers were recorded in the name of Emily Charlotte Langtry in ... of Jersey

COD AND MACKEREL.

How They are Caught along the Gloucester Coast—Cruise of a "Banker"—New Methods of Fishing.

As in almost every other industry there has been a great change in the methods of the fisherman during the past quarter of a century says a letter from Gloucester Massachusetts to the New York Evening Post Formerly cod and halibut were taken with handlines exclusively now the trawl is almost universally used Formerly the skipper depended on the hook for his catch of mackerel now the purse seine is both hook and bait The heaviest lading of a "banker" outward bound is her trawls. Let the reader imagine a line four hundred fathoms in length to which at fathom intervals tributary lines of tarred cotton fifty fathoms long and thickly set with hooks are attached and he will have a good idea of the trawl used in cod fishing That set for halibut differs only in this that its lines are attached at two and one half fathom intervals On shipboard they are stowed in tubs or flour barrels cut down and with the other necessary gear buoys anchors flags etc comprise the most extensive part of a vessel's outfit The reader is perhaps curious enough to wish to follow a "banker" to her fishing ground off the Newfoundland coast and see how this formidable machine is used

Our vessel's hold is divided into compartments well filled with salt for curing Aft there is quite a roomy saloon with berths and cabins ranged around it The larder is well stocked with flour beef pork biscuit vegetables and fresh fish at constant command while hot tea and coffee may be had at any time of day At Canso we stop for bait—herring this time although squid are equally effective Then we proceed directly to the fishing ground, and, having selected a spot for our set, round to and anchor The trawls are placed in position with dories, small round bottomed boats and the first step is to determine by lot the position of the boats Then the hooks are baited the tubs containing the lines and gear are placed in the dories the men tumble in after them and the little craft floats out on the long swells of the Atlantic A tub will set between three and four hundred fathoms of line and five or six tubs in continuous line form a trawl Each boat takes a different direction from the vessel so that when the line is paid out the former is in the center of a circle of which the trawl is the circumference. An anchor at each end keeps the line in place and buoys and flags mark its position The trawl is left till morning the vessel meantime lying within at anchor At daylight breakfast is ready and after that the dories slide over the vessel's side and the men are off to take up the morning's catch It is perhaps what the fishermen call a heavy morning the sea moans a chilling wind strikes in from the southeast and a bank of fog seaward calls up an anxious look to many bronzed countenances When the first buoy is reached the men begin to haul at the anchor on the sand forty fathoms below Meantime other dories begin at other divisions of the trawl After what seems an interminable pull the anchor heaves in sight and here on the first hook is a straggling fighting, not over cod of fifty pounds weight A few more hauls and her neighbor, the halibut parts the waters. He is struck in the head with a gaff and pulled aboard the little craft keeling over to the water's edge as his head strikes the gunwale. Two hundred pounds of steaks the old ers know can be had from that fellow Here are pretty sprays of corals attached to the hooks, next comes a stone bored through and through by a minute species of shell fish while coiled in the holes and about the stone are numerous annelids, curious sea worms that have the faculty of building sandy homes for themselves This innocent, mild-eyed haddock the men shake into the boat with no compunction Certain teeth wounds on him prove that his forerunner on the line the halibut, has been trying to swallow him through the night A swordfish follows—a savage fellow with a long bony weapon attached to his snout—a rara avis but taken now and then on the trawls The fishermen say that he appears only with the schools of mackerel and menhaden and spends his time in spitting them on his sword and afterward eating them Several coil intervene then comes a turbot a delicious food fish but so little appreciated in the states that he goes into the vessel's larder there being no sale for him at home A curious object follows—the skeleton of a cod stripped of every particle of flesh An army of little insects called sand fleas by the fishermen attacked him while struggling on the hook, and in an hour or two reduced him to these his simplest elements

Finally we have the round head of a dog fish—the bete noire of the fisherman His liver yields a nice clean oil but otherwise he is valueless and is directed back into the water having taken up room better occupied by his betters Thus the work goes on until the end of our division of the trawl is reached when we break out the anchor and haul it with the buoy line and buoys into the boat We are then ready to regain the ship but quite likely a dense fog has by this time settled on the sea and everything an oar's length from the boat is shut out If we are near enough to the vessel to hear her fog horn we shall easily regain her but if not the chances are that we shall miss her completely as many a poor fellow has done and, if not so fortunate as to reach land or fall in with some vessel be engulfed in the waves or perish with hunger and thirst. But reaching the ship the fish are then pitched upon the deck, "dressed down," and packed in the hold; then, if the catch is not sufficiently large to please the skipper we up anchor and seek a new ground, where the trawl is again baited and set And this varied by days of storm when nothing is done, is the routine of the fisherman during the three months or more on the banks

The mackerel catcher has a somewhat different experience Vessels of this class are of the same rig, tonnage and lading as the cod fisher except that in them the seine takes the place of the trawl The scene of their operations is rather wide too, as they meet the mackerel on their appearance in the spring as far south as Virginia, and follow them to the shores of Greenland and Iceland George's bank in the open sea about 150 miles off Cape Ann, and the Dominion waters, are however the favorite fishing grounds When one of the vessels reaches the spot where prey may be taken a sharp watch is kept for the schools which may be seen playing about on the surface, old salts aver that they can smell a school of mackerel as well as menhaden When one is sighted the tail sense of the crew gives way to animation The purse-seine, coiled on the after hatch is hastily thrown into the seine boat which has been towing astern since the vessel left port Two dories are let down, and in company with the seine boat, row out toward the school At the proper time the seine boat gives the word the two dories take each an end of the seine some 250 fathoms in length, and in three minutes enclose the school Then the seine is pursed and the schooner is signaled to come alongside There are 500 barrels of large fat mackerel in the purse!" The method of transferring them to the vessel is much like that practiced by the menhaden steamers A large dip net with a long handle worked by tackling is let down into the struggling mass, and throws them on the vessel's deck by the half barrel This done the operation of "dressing down" begins by throwing the catch into a square trough, twelve men of the crew of fourteen then attack them with knives dexterously open them by a slit down the back and clean them at a stroke, they are then washed assorted into various grades according to size and fatness and packed in barrels one barrel of Liverpool salt required for four barrels of fish So rapidly do they work that forty seven barrels have been cleaned and packed in two hours and a half Meantime two men have been overhauling the seine, repairing it where a shark or bluefish has made a rent and the men are ready for another haul—perhaps to work for hours without securing a barrel

An Improved Telephone

The Pall Mall Gazette describes a new telephone which Mr Arthur St George an English inventor has just patented Supplementary to the telephone itself is a contrivance which will, it is stated not only record every description of conversation carried on through the instrument, but will reproduce the words of any future time A circular plate of glass is coated with collodion and made sensitive as a photographic plate. This is placed in a dark box in which is a slit to admit a ray of light In front of the glass is the telephone diaphragm which by its vibrations opens and closes a small shutter through which a beam of light is constantly passing and imprinting a dark line on the glass Vibrations of the shutter cause the dark line to vary in thickness according to the tones of the voice The glass plate revolves by clock work and the conversation as it leaves the telephone is recorded on the sensitive plate, the words spoken being fixed as is done in photography The plate can be brought forward afterward and when replaced in the machine and connected with a distant telephone, will when set in motion give back the original conversation

GIVEN UP BY DOCTORS.

"Is it possible that Mr Godfrey is up and at work and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured and with nothing but Hop Bitters and only ten days ago his doctors gave him up and said he must die"

"Well-a-day! That's remarkable! I will go this day and get some for my poor George—I know hops are good."

A BRIDE OF THE MORROW

The Wedding Eve of Trustful Ethlyn and Her Dear George W Simpson

Chicago Tribune

"Do you like apple pie?"

The soft sighing wind of a dreamy one light undershirt-and no-suspenders evening in June was kissing the fluffy mass of golden hair that surmounted Ethlyn McNulty's perfectly shaped head, and as she looked trustingly up into the face of the one man in all the wide wide world to whom she had given the priceless treasure of her girlish summer resort love George W Simpson felt the balm of her doughnut breath on his lips and knew that come weal or woe, be the day radiant with the golden sunshine of fortune or darkened by the gaunt haggard figure of despair there would always be one heart that beat for him alone Ere the last rays of another setting sun shall again gild the eternal hills and such stray cows happen to be standing around a cassocked priest shall make these twain one for life and George will be $20 loser This last thought steals over him as he stands there Ethlyn's arms around his neck and as it washes in turn fully around the precincts of his soul his thoughts drift back to the happy past when he was a merry light-hearted boy with a sore toe But suddenly the touch of a damask cheek against his own brings the reverie to a close A pair of bright sparkling eyes—eyes that will soon be picking out bonnets at his expense—are looking at him and he fancies that in their depths he sees a tinge of melancholy a lambent gleam of no-caramels for three days that goes to his very heart

"You are sad my darling" he says pressing her closely to the midship rib of his larboard side "Why do you look so sorrowful?"

"Because" she replies "you have not answered my question I asked you if you liked apple pie."

"Yes" he says, "I do I am deeply enamored of pie in every shape"

Hardly had the words left his lips when Ethlyn's head droops and presently her lithe form is shaken by a storm of sobs George is horror stricken He has not felt such a shock since the Philadelphia nine won a game

"Why do you weep my precious one?" he asks bending tenderly over her

"Because" she answers him her voice husky with grief "I cannot make pie"

"Is this true? Are you certain there is no mistake?"

"None none" Ethlyn moans despairingly "I cannot cook at all"

"Then" he says, raining a shower of kisses on the upturned face "you are more precious to me than ever"

JACK, THE PET JAVELIN.

A Wild Pig Which Smacks His Lips After Tossing Off Big Whiskey,

San Antonio Light

An esteemed contributor sends the following communication to the Light Jack was found in the woods near Lytle station on the International south of San Antonio, by J M McDaniel some time last summer and presented to that gentleman by Mr E Bellamy agent for the International at that station It was supposed to be about three weeks old when caught I will keep you in suspense no longer, the Hon Jack is neither more nor less than a javelin or young wild hog Mr Bellamy had the curiosity and the patience to try his training skill on him and on application he found him an apt scholar He persevered and at the end of one month not only was he an efficient body guard by day but a faithful sentinel by night. Mr Bellamy is a very active and accommodating gentleman and has been a long time in the company's employ yet in his varied duties you will find Jack at his heels and he will allow no one to come between him and his body

When seated at the desk he lies down at Mr B's feet and will allow no one to touch him At night Jack follows Mr B to his bedside and if he cannot manage by stealth or otherwise to get into the bed he will lie down beside the bed and there remain until morning unless some intruder steps into the room when he will dart at him with all the ferocity of his wild nature Few who intrude on him unwittingly once ever wish to try their hand a second time, yet if not molested he is perfectly gentle At the table he stands at his master's side and receives a portion of anything that he eats and he is not particular what it is He is veritable tippler and likes his whisky and beer and any other strong drink After drinking whisky he will smack his lips and give signs for more Any person who has ever seen a javelin can imagine what a graceful figure he cuts with his unshapely body with the whisky glass in his mouth

But a short time ago three cayotes came on the platform at the station in the middle of the night Jack jumped up and stood between his master and the cayotes and kept them at bay until one of the transportation men woke up and asked what was the matter Mr B said it was only cayotes, that Jack would take care of them and rolled over and went to sleep again One day later Jack got up into the bed beside the baby He licked its face and then laid down beside it and kept the flies off Jack has got many tricks but the most important thing that strikes the observer is the strong attachment he has for his master

LITTLE GOLDEN HEADS

How Some Mothers Keep the Gilt of Their Children's Tresses

It is said that some mothers manage to keep the bright golden hue in their children's tresses a long time remarked a reporter to a lady connected with a Chicago establishment of human hair goods, as she stood looking at the passing crowds

Ah yes she answered that is so I kept the color in my little girl's hair until she was 15 and then she had vanity enough to take care of it herself Her hair was very fine and long when she was only 6 years old but it began to turn dark so every other day I washed it in soda and common soap and when it was dry brushed it thoroughly, and when it was dry brushed it thoroughly and then curled it Once a week I rubbed the scalp with a raw egg Washing the hair is not injurious when it is thoroughly brushed after becoming dry

"A good many children passing by here have beautiful golden hair floating, like a flame how do you account for it?" asked the reporter of the trafficker in human frizzes and bangs as he entered the shop

Oh it is usually artificial said he Children of wealthy parents have a French bonne who washes their hair in salt water and a little potash and puts it up in curl paper every night Their hair does not curl naturally you know No sir I do not think that salt water is injurious I have known children to possess very luxuriant hair who had it washed in salt water from the days of babyhood Then some ladies who admire dark eyes and light hair keep their children's locks bleached How do they accomplish it? Easy enough They wash it in lemon juice once a week and the acid changes the color It almost breaks a proud mother's heart to see her boy's beautiful ringlets clipped off when he takes a notion that he wants close cropped hair in order to look manly Yellow, silken hair is all the rage for the petted youngster of the rich and it is very much cultivated among young belles

The Student's Duel

Heidelberg letter Hearing that there was to be a students duel we planned to gratify our curiosity in seeing what has been so much written about Taking a carriage we rode across the river up to the side of a mountain and down a narrow gorge to a public house We went in and ordered some refreshments and chatted for half an hour when a white-capped student passed I accosted him and earnestly made known our wants in the language of Goethe and Schiller He gave me a long and earnest answer not a word of which could I understand At last a waiter who spoke English came and we sought her kind offices She agreed to take us in ten minutes to a room where we could see the combat through a window We waited an hour and as our patience was about exhausted she returned Through the window we could see two men confronting each other with their right hands extended straight over their heads Their left arms were tied behind their backs and goggles over their eyes The men were padded everywhere except their heads which were left uncovered At the appointed signal they began cutting at each other with lightning like rapidity Neither seemed to try to ward off the blows of his opponent As soon as one was cut the seconds ran between them and knocked up the swords The doctor examined the wounds staunched the blood and the fight was resumed and went on until the doctor decided that further fighting would endanger life It was the most beastly tomfoolery I ever saw The hurt inflicted was not enough to satisfy a man seeking redress for a real or fancied insult but was too severe for play I could see no display of skill nor any particular manifestation of courage

GOUVERNEUR N Y —The Herald says as a friend to its patrons it is with pleasure that it can recommend as a radical cure for all rheumatic affections the wonderful remedy St Jacobs Oil It cures pain

The Scottish Tar has cleared for Queenstown with 30 740 ctls wheat valued at $38 101 shipped by Gibson Church & Co

FREIGHTS—The wooden ship St Lucie 1319 tons has been taken by Balfour Guthrie & Co for wheat loading to U K Havre or Antwerp on terms reserved The ship Mercury now on the Sound 1156 tons will load spars at Port Blakeley to the Atlantic side getting lump sum of $18 500 Freights are weak and while the last transaction is not made public yet it is generally understood that a concession on last rates was made The spot tonnage is not large but shippers continue to keep well employed in filling late arrivals and do not care about new business especially when wheat is so hard to get We have in port under engagement 22 468 registered tons disengaged 11 098 tons of which 2000 is not immediately available and 26 1?? en route Of the latter three-fifths is known to be under charter The British iron ship Killochan has arrived under prior charter to Balfour Guthrie & Co

WHEAT—Beerbohm reports steady and quiet markets abroad but there is a decline of 3d for red winter cargoes for shipment Farmers deliveries for last week ran up to 85,000 qrs Private cables report a very weak market with cargoes in no request The local situation is without particular change other than that buyers are meeting with more difficulty in buying Walla Walla wheat at best points for shipping Holders seem to think the weakness in freights means a better price to them and are back ward about selling at present rates for tonnage and value of wheat abroad there is little or no profit for the shipper All business is being done in the hope that a better turn will come later on As regards valley there is little going into the hands of shippers, millers doing the bulk of business We quote $1 50 for Walla Walla and $1 57½ for valley in round shipping lots

TUTT'S PILLS

TORPID BOWELS, DISORDERED LIVER, and MALARIA.

From these sources arise three fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect

THE WONDER OF THE AGE!

"REX MAGNUS"

The Humiston Food Preservative,

Keeps All Kinds of Food Absolutely Fresh

for any length of time It will not only keep fish flesh and fowl eggs milk butter and cream perfectly fresh and sweet but it actually improves their quality

Tough and Dry Meats Made Tender

J B Hiscock of Faneuil Hall Market Boston says "I kept some tough dry old mutton which had been treated with this preparation in my stall for over two months. Then I and others ate of it and it was as sweet and tender as any mutton could be"

It is Tasteless, Harmless and Cheap

REX MAGNUS is a combination of well known and perfectly simple and harmless in character and its use will not injure the most feeble and delicate system It really promotes health for it makes possible the sweet tender and juicy and absolutely prevents that decay which even in its earlier stages renders food unwholesome for the human stomach

No Taste of it can be Detected in Food

It has withstood the most searching tests in this respect Dishes of treated and untreated meats fish oysters milk and cream have been placed side by side at many notable dinners in Boston, New Haven and Chicago and no one could tell which was preserved and which was fresh

How to Get It

SWIFT'S SPECIFIC

Is not a mineral mixture but is a revelation through the instinct of the untutored savage and is a complete antidote to all kinds of Blood Poison and Skin Humor

Swift's Specific has cured me of Scrofula which is hereditary in my family I have suffered with it for many years and have tried a great many physicians and all sorts of treatment but to no purpose and when I began to take Swift's Specific I was in a horrible condition but thanks to this great remedy I am rid of the disease. There is no doubt that it is the greatest medicine in existence and I hope any who doubt will write to me

F C HAWES Jr Clarkesville Ga.

After suffering twenty five years with a painful Dry Tetter and trying many physicians I was at last relieved by the use of Swift's Specific and I cheerfully commend it to all similarly afflicted
